

It Was Like This in Yank Planes as Japs Blasted in Coral Sea

By the commander of an American torpedo plane squadron in the Coral Sea battle as told to Clark Lee

SOMEWHERE IN THE SOUTHWESTERN PACIFIC—(P)—At 8 A. M. our scout planes loom out of an overcast sky and come aboard. The word quickly spreads through the ship that they have sighted an enemy aircraft carrier and that we are to attack. The date is May 7—five months after Pearl Harbor.

In the room where the pilots of my squadron are seated with me around a large table there is an atmosphere of tension. It eases as we set to work plotting our courses and planning our method of attack.

The pilot's flying gear—gloves, life jackets, helmets—is beside their chairs. There is little conversation and I don't give any fight talk. Everybody knows what we are up against. We hear the fighters taking off above us. Then our turn comes and we walk up to the flight deck where our planes are waiting, already warmed up and with crews aboard.

Young and clear-eyed, the pilots are obviously excited, but no more than if they were going out to play a tough game of football. They dig elbows into each others' ribs, slap shoulders and trade quick, comradely grins. One youngster boots another in the pants when he is slow going through the door. I check them over: Young fliers not long out of Annapolis, warrant officers who recently made their ranks, enlisted pilots, boys who were in college only three years ago. Each of them knows his job as well as it can be taught by hundreds of hours of practice and training.

They are a little nervous as we take off, but once in the air they steady up quickly. We don't waste any time getting into formation for the enemy is nearly at the maximum range and gaso-

PEARL HARBOR, T. H., June 12—(P)—American fliers, many yelling "Remember Pearl Harbor" as they pushed their bombers into screaming dives, sank nine and possibly 11 Japanese warships and transports at Tulagi Harbor, Solomon Islands, May 4 as a prelude to the battle of the Coral Sea.

Participants in the battle said here today they were certain that two heavy cruisers, three light cruisers, two destroyers and two large transports were sunk. A seaplane tender and a third transport also possibly were sunk as well as numerous small boats. Aircraft carrier squadrons delivered the furious assault and all returned without a scratch to their personnel.

Devastating as the blow was to the enemy, it was but a sample of what was to come, for one of the officers in the engagement said:

"We gave them a larger dose of the same stuff" in the ensuing battle of the Coral Sea, which lasted a week.

Lieut. Commanders Joseph Taylor, Danville, Ill., and William Burch, Paducah, Ky., vividly described the blistering attack on the enemy base 1,000 miles northeast of Australia on little Florida Island in the center of the Solomon group.

Burch said:

"Aboard the carrier we had not heard anything about the little harbor of Tulagi until late one night when word was passed over the loudspeaker: 'Prepare all squadrons for attack on ships in the harbor at Tulagi at dawn.' It was a complete surprise. Our task force had been hunting the enemy in the Coral Sea.

"Long before dawn, we were ready and anxious for the takeoff. We got over Tulagi in early morning, every plane in position and carrying a full load of torpedoes and bombs. We didn't know

ALLIES MOVE TO CRUSH AXIS THIS YEAR

U.S. Aircraft Carrier Lexington Was Lost in Coral Sea

Meandering Along the Main Stem

By WASH FAYETTE

I had just scoured the Courthouse for news; ran the gauntlet of rows of men and women sitting in the Courthouse corridor waiting their turn at signing up for sugar with which to can their fruit, and was headed toward the City Hall, when my attention was attracted by the noisy cries of a pair of blue jays on the Courthouse lawn.

Mingled with the cries of the old jays were the frantic notes of a jaylet which was being carried by an eight year old boy.

Not for a moment did the blue jays hesitate in protecting their young, and with screams of anger they darted down and attacked the boy's bare head.

The effect was magical! Dropping the young jay, the boy scampered for cover, and the victorious parent birds flew to a nearby tree and continued to scream at him until their baby had escaped.

It has been about 30 years ago that Paul Peck made the first airplane flight ever attempted in Fayette County, using an old Curtiss bi-plane with a rotary motor back of the pilot's seat that later crushed Peck to death when the plane crashed during an exhibition flight in an adjoining state.

Mrs. Harold Zimmerman, who lives north of Washington C. H., brought to the Record-Herald of office a picture taken of Peck in flight when he took off from the east end of the quarter stretch at the Fairgrounds here. So far as I know it is the only picture of the flight in existence. (Now I expect a half dozen others to come to light.)

The photo shows that the plane had runners for a landing gear instead of wheels.

Earl McCoy tells me that Charles Harlow was secretary of the Fair at the time Peck made his first flights here. I know that I was there to see Peck and still recall the thrill of seeing my first airplane flight.

FARM BILL VETO LIKELY UNLESS CHANGES MADE

House Insistence on Limit For Sale of Surplus Wheat One of Objections

COMPROMISE NOW SOUGHT

Senate Form of Measure Has White House Approval, Insiders Hint

WASHINGTON, June 12—(P)—Reliable Senate sources said today that President Roosevelt might veto the annual farm appropriation bill unless a Senate-House conference committee found some new basis for compromising their differences.

These Senators said they expected a White House veto on either or both of these grounds: House rejection of a compromise plan for selling not more than 125,000,000 bushels of surplus government wheat for livestock feed at a price of about 83 cents a bushel.

Similar house opposition to a provision requiring inclusion of some $200,000,000 in "soil conservation" payments to farmers before so-called "parity payments" could be made on cotton, wheat, corn, tobacco, rice, or peanuts.

The Senate met administration demands on these points three weeks ago when it passed the bill but the house rejected both provisions. The Senate again yesterday instructed its conferees to stand fast in negotiations with representatives from the house.

Because three of the house conferees were absent, the second attempt to iron out Senate and house differences probably must wait until next week. As the farm bill passed the Senate it carried more than $680,000,000 cash and $185,000,000 in loan authority.

Most of Crew Rescued But Plane Loss Heavy; Big Jap Toll Taken

WASHINGTON, June 12—(P)—The navy announced today the loss of the U. S. aircraft carrier Lexington as a result of the battle of the Coral Sea which prevented the Japanese from either invading or isolating Australia.

The loss was disclosed in connection with an official review of the navy's part in the entire Coral Sea campaign, starting March 10 at New Guinea and running through May 8 when enemy aircraft inflicted such damage on the Lexington that several hours later she exploded and sank, with a relatively light loss of life.

The Lexington's normal complement was 2,300 men. The navy said 92 percent of the personnel on board was rescued. The navy communique did not say how many of the Lexington's fighting planes were lost, but officials commented that "obviously planes were lost."

The review showed that the Coral Sea campaign, ending disastrously for the enemy, cost the Japanese more than 15 ships sunk, 2 probably sunk and 20 damaged while the only American losses were the 33,000-ton Lexington, the tanker Neosho and the destroyer Sims.

A large part of the personnel from the Neosho and Sims was rescued and has reached port.

As against these losses which the navy said had been instrumental in disrupting Japan's strategy against Australia, the navy announced the Japanese had suffered:

Sunk: 1 aircraft carrier, 3 heavy cruisers, 1 light cruiser, 2 destroyers, several transports and small supply vessels.

Severely damaged and probably sunk: 1 cruiser, 1 destroyer. Severely damaged: More than 20 ships including 1 aircraft carrier, 3 cruisers, 2 aircraft tenders, 3 destroyers.

The enemy also suffered a loss of more than 100 aircraft, the navy declared.

The heaviest losses of the enemy were inflicted in an attack on Salamaua and Lae, New Guinea, March 10 when aircraft from a Pacific fleet task force commanded by Vice Admiral Wilson Brown joined shore-based planes from Australia to attack the enemy bases.

This attack, previously re-

Bomber Plunges into Bay at Sarasota, Fla.

SARASOTA FLA., June 12—(P)—Eight army fliers were killed and two injured early today when a four engine bomber crashed into Sarasota Bay.

Major Gardiner Fiske, Sarasota air base intelligence officer, said the heavy ship cleared the runway on a pre-dawn training flight and flew about a mile when it went out of control. It landed on its back in a foot and a half of water about 200 feet from shore. Two of the crew were pulled from the wreckage with only minor injuries.

Major Fiske said identities had not been fully established and the crew list was withheld temporarily.

Blown reported finding a spine bone six feet long, a two-foot rib bone and three small skulls near the corner of his house while digging a trench for a water pipe.

Near them he found the children's shoes in a row, all the toes pointing in the same direction.

BOLD INVASION OF EUROPE SEEN AS POSSIBILITY

Bombing of Japan by Yank Fliers Based in Russia May Come Eventually

ALLIED OFFENSE FORMING

U. S.-British-Russian Pact Interpreted as Paving Way to 1942 Victory

By DREW MIDDLETON (By The Associated Press)

With the United States, Britain and Russia united as never before, Allied hopes of striking a decisive blow in the war this year appeared today to be predicated on a bold invasion of western Europe.

That Allied strategy calls for such a move was clearly indicated by the announcement yesterday that Washington, London and Moscow are agreed on the urgency of opening a second front to crush Adolf Hitler's armies between two forces.

Hints of Invasion

Already three military factors were reported to have forced the Germans to frenzied efforts to secure western Europe against invasion:

1—Steady reinforcement of American forces in Northern Ireland, plus the growing efficiency of the British army.

2—Arrival of a powerful American battle squadron in British waters to bolster the Royal Navy's home fleet.

3—The imminent addition of American bomber squadrons to the RAF, which already is master of the skies over the channel and which has demonstrated its ability to hurl more than 1,000 planes a night against German industrial centers.

The Germans' worries have been augmented further by British Commando raids which have shown their coastal defenses along the English Channel far from invulnerable.

Europe Speculates

Allied capitals rang with speculation today on the prospects of three vast and perhaps imminent developments aimed at the final downfall of Germany and Japan and the shaping of a new world at peace.

While Berlin sounded a new threat of Adolf Hitler's "coming great offensive," the United Nations envisaged:

Twenty-two of the nurses who served on Bataan have been reported safe. The other presumably have been taken prisoner, or are missing.

Democratic Primary Spiced By Five-way Contest

COLUMBUS, June 12—(P)—Walter Heer, Franklin County Democratic chairman, today entered his party's contest for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

Heer filed for the office with four other leading Democrats, State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson, former Congressman John McSweeney and former Treasurer Clarence Knisley. Attorney Frank Dye of Columbus, who ran last in a field of seven Democratic gubernatorial aspirants in 1940, also filed for that office.

'Great Offense Coming' In Russia, Nazis Hint

Large-scale German offensives in the Crimea and Leningrad sectors may be opening attacks of the long-awaited general German offensive on the eastern front. The Germans are reported battering the defenses of Sevastopol, Crimean port. Russians are also preparing for a possible major action in the Murmansk area where the Germans may make an effort to cut the supply line flowing into besieged Russia from the United States and Britain.

HITLER'S HORDE ADVANCING IN KHARKOV AREA

Germany Set Back in Drive For Sevastopol—War in Africa See-saws

(By The Associated Press)

Marshal Fedor von Bock's armies were reported attacking today in a great new battle around Kharkov, the Soviet "Pittsburgh" in the Ukraine, amid indications that zero hour may be near for the long-heralded German summer offensive.

Tersely, the Soviet command acknowledged that the new German drive was making headway against bitter Russian resistance.

Nazis Are Repulsed

On the Crimean front, Soviet dispatches reported that the defenders of long-besieged Sevastopol, key Black Sea naval base, were counter-attacking, improving some of their positions and bloody repulsing fresh German assaults.

The Russian high command said nearly 15,000 Germans had been killed and more than 50 tanks destroyed in three days of fighting on the approaches to Sevastopol, but dispatches to Red Star, the Soviet army newspaper, conceded that the situation was "extremely tense."

'Great Offense' Coming

A Berlin broadcast said the attacks on Sevastopol and east of Kharkov were the prelude to Hitler's "coming great offensive, and indicated the big push would start once Sevastopol had been reduced and the German lines straightened out below Kharkov.

In the battle of North Africa, British and German armored forces clashed on the desert sands 25 miles below Tobruk following

Youth Kills Stepfather At OSU for Reprimand

COLUMBUS, June 12—(P)—A psychiatrist was called today to examine a high school honor student who "very poetically" related how his stepfather was shot to death in an Ohio State University laboratory classroom.

His heart pierced by a .32 caliber bullet, Dr. Charles R. Owens, 37, was found dead yesterday by Prof. Joseph H. Kofolt and several students who were attracted by a shot.

Pudge 16-year-old Richard Steadman Thompson was quoted by Coroner Edward E. Smith as saying:

"I thought about killing him Tuesday and I've had dreams about it, too."

Assistant Prosecutor William Bryant said Thompson spoke "very poetically" and told of being reprimanded by his mother and stepfather, Dr. Owens, a chemical engineering instructor, for refusing to search for work.

Juvenile Judge Clayton Rose, who also questioned Thompson declared "There is some indication the trouble is mental."

Smith asserted that Thompson

Blood of Church on Hitler's Hands

Nazi Leader Fighting Religion as Hard as Ever but German People Just as Determined To Free Country of Nazi Doctrine of 'Blood and Soil' with Der Fuehrer as God

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER (Wide World News Service)

NEW YORK, June 12—Adolf Hitler is fighting the established Roman Catholic and Lutheran churches just as relentlessly as he ever did, although outwardly there appears to be a truce.

But the church leaders haven't been fooled.

They know Alfred Rosenberg, Hitler's "ideological leader," has prepared a secret memorandum, of which a copy is in their possession, in which he demands, in substance, that after the victorious ending of the war nobody who still clings to membership in the Christian churches shall be allowed to hold any government job whatsoever—not even that of messenger or charwoman.

One must remember, in dealing with the German church that the dyed-in-the-wool Nazi regards Christian religion as a Jewish plot.

That small band of "German Christians" who tried to harmonize Nazism with Christianity by making Jesus out as the foe of Judaism and as an Aryan from Nazareth, now is virtually in the

REPORTS DENIED BOND BUYING TO BE COMPULSORY

Payroll Deduction Plan Is Voluntary, Chairman of Committee Here Told

In view of some interference with the efficiency of the war bond campaign in the effort to secure pledges from all individuals on payrolls for a 10 percent of their net income to go into the purchase of bonds, by reports being circulated rather widely that the government is about to initiate legislation to bring about compulsory payroll deductions for this purpose, a denial of such immediate intention has been issued from an official source.

ALLIES MOVE TO CRUSH AXIS THIS YEAR—AND MAY INVADE GERMANY

1. Creation of a second front in Europe in 1942.

2. A possible Russian attack on Japan.

3. The opening of Soviet air bases to American bombers for attacks on Japan.

In Washington, congressional quarters expressed belief that the "full understanding" reached between President Roosevelt and Russia's Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov might open bases at Vladivostok to U. S. bomber squadrons.

"Bomb Japan" Plan
"If the Russians give us the right to use those bases, I feel confident that the United States could bring Japan to her knees in a short time," declared Senator Wheeler (D-Mont.).

Others voiced the conviction that nothing in the mutual-aid agreement between the United States and Russia would precipitate the Russians into war with Japan while they were so heavily engaged with Hitler in the west.

It was noted, too, that the Russian-British agreement emphasized that it was directed against "Germany or any of the states associated with her in acts of aggression in Europe."

The treaty stressed the words "in Europe" seven times, clearly indicating Russia wanted to be free to maintain the status quo of an uneasy neutrality toward Japan.

China Wants Help
Sorely pressed China watched anxiously, with the Chinese press bluntly calling on Russia to strike at Japan now.

In Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's wartime capital at Chungking, the newspaper Ta King Pao declared:

"Russia should realize that the Japanese attack on the Aleutians (off Alaska) was a direct threat to Soviet Kamchatka and Siberia. Can Russia stand aside and watch the wildfire spread to her very gates? She must do something and do it quickly."

Talk of a Russo-Japanese war was rife also at Pearl Harbor, where informed quarters suggested that the Japanese thrusts at Midway and Alaska were the prelude to an attack on Russia.

America and Russia
With the Allies united as never before—first by a new 20-year mutual assistance pact between Britain and Russia, second by a new Washington-Moscow accord wiping the dollar sign off United States aid to Russia—the question of opening a second front in Europe this year brought various reactions.

In Washington, few Congress members believed that the White House announcement of agreement on the "urgent task" of creating a new front portended any immediate attempt to land Allied troops in Europe.

London, Washington and Moscow were all agreed on the urgency of the matter, but officials shied at a direct interpretation of the rather ambiguously worded statement.

Sections of the British press which long have been clamoring for direct action against Germany hailed the accord with high enthusiasm, typified by the London Daily Express' comment:

"This is Hitler's worst day."

At all events, London military observers declared Hitler's anxiety was betrayed by two factors:

1. Frenzied German efforts to secure the channel coast against invasion.

2. Indications that Hitler was massing his armies for an all-out attempt to smash Russia before the Allies can establish a second front.

By SQUADRON COMMANDER

line may be precious. One circle and we are in line.

I take the squadron up through thick weather and we beeline for our objective. After flying for a while we break out of the clouds into perfect, clear weather, a cloudless blue sky and a bluer sea.

At the point where we expected to contact the enemy there is nothing but unbroken sea beneath us. We continue steadily northward, hoping to find him before the shortage of gasoline forces us to turn back.

Finally I see specks which steadily grow into ships. We all have a new feeling of tenseness that lasts until we are actually in action. Then it disappears. Those few minutes of waiting for contact are undoubtedly the worst.

I take the squadron down fast. I see below only three enemy ships. They are steaming east, with a cruiser off each bow of the carrier and about four miles in advance of it. Very possibly there were other ships—destroyers and cruisers—in the enemy force, but if so I didn't see them.

We get lined up on the carrier and head straight for it. When we are still about ten miles away the nearest cruiser opens on us. We see the reddish-orange flash of its guns and quickly change course. My heart does a half loop and seems to hang suspended and my breathing stops as I wait for the burst of the shells. Then there are black puffs a mile ahead of us and my heart flips back into normal flight position and I begin to breathe again.

The cruiser's second salvo is so close that we hear the "whaps" of the shells. We swing out away from his range.

My tail gunner shouts over the radio that two "97" fighters are after us. They square away and dive on us from our quarter, coming within 150 yards and then zooming away. To shake them we dodge back toward the cruiser, which again cuts loose.

We are rid of them.

We are now about four miles from the carrier. Both cruisers open at us, firing their shells into the sea to throw columns of water up ahead of us.

Meanwhile, the carrier has started a fast circle to its left, running for its life. It has completed about a quarter turn when our bombers suddenly dive on it. We don't see the bombers but we do see their bombs. The next few seconds are indescribable. One instant the carrier is intact. The next it is a shambles as bomb after bomb rips into its deck. Our bombers weren't aiming to miss.

A bomb smashes the carrier squarely just astern of midships. What must have been a heavy anti-aircraft gun mounting lobs lazily into the air and plops over-side into the sea. Smoke streams out astern from the huge wound.

The carrier is still swinging to the left. We duck into the trailing smoke and I give the signal for our attack. We poke our noses through the smoke and go in for the kill. A single anti-aircraft gun somewhere near the stern is still firing, but the carrier is already badly wrecked, with smoke and flames everywhere.

I sight on the ship and think "what a terrible mess." It never occurs to me that there is anybody aboard the carrier. In fact I would be extremely surprised if anyone suggested there were people on board. It is just a target. I have the sensation of sitting way off in one corner of the sky and watching myself and other planes twisting and maneuvering down near the surface of the water. In my mind's eye I see the whole scene as from a great distance.

Meanwhile I release my fish and pull out. My plane jumps ahead as it is freed of the weight of the torpedo. My No. 2 plane releases, then soars out over the stern. We bank sharply and watch for the explosions.

They come almost simultaneously—square hits amidships. The torpedoes throw up spouts of water like a fountain. The water reaches its maximum height in a column then seems to spill over a little. A puff of smoke comes up from the center of the water column. The splashes are different than near misses with bombs, where the water splatters in huge, wide splashes with heavy smoke and exploding gas shooting high into the air.

My other planes push home the attack. As we pull away the carrier already is beginning to settle even though it is still turning. It completes three turns before stopping dead and going under.

There is no feeling of exultation. There is no emotional reaction except relief. I think that this one, at least, is no longer a danger. Its planes can not attack our own carrier. I don't think of Pearl Harbor or the Japanese or anything except that this impersonal enemy has been killed and can not kill us.

Our job is done now, so we rendezvous and head for home. I count the planes. All there. Everything okay. Then I count again and find one extra. But it is an American plane. So we continue on our course. Landing, we find that five planes from another squadron have joined me while four of mine came home with the other squadron.

Back on our carrier the pilots write individual reports and we find that each has seen a dozen things the others never noticed. Our impressions are disjointed, but gradually they fit into one picture. We ask one fighter pilot from another squadron to describe the markings on the tail of the Japanese bombers. To his astonishment he hadn't even noticed whether they were twin-tail or single. But he can describe minutely the vital area in the Jap engine into which his bullets were pouring.

My neck is horribly stiff and I realize that I have been turning my head constantly from the take-off to the landing. I make a mental note to remind the air crews to take neck strengthening exercises in preparation for battle.

In the wardrobe the pilots are chattering excitedly over sandwiches and coffee, comparing experiences and impressions. Later they start playing poker, but each hand is interrupted as somebody recalls new details of the battle.

We have won the first round but the enemy is still near. We learn how near at dusk, when six Japanese fighters mistake our carrier for one of theirs and come in to land. We open on them and chase them away.

We know then that we've been spotted and that there'll be more action tomorrow. It will be even more than today—definitely and finally a fight for our lives.

Next morning our scouts report three enemy carriers and a large force of other warships a considerable distance away, the enemy having changed course during the night. Our commanders decide to attack despite the distance and again we take off.

I am pleased to find myself much calmer than yesterday and as we fly to our target I plan ways for putting to use the lessons we've learned.

the withdrawal of Free French troops from Bir Hacheim, Axis-captured southern anchor of the main British defense system.

British headquarters said the tank battle centered around Harimat, midway between Tobruk and Bir Hacheim, and indicated the outcome was still uncertain.

Threat to U. S. Fades
Meanwhile, the fruits of the great American naval victory at Midway began to take shape.

In Washington, informed quarters declared the triumph was so complete as almost to eliminate the possibility that the enemy would risk venturing again into Pacific zones where he would be a target for land-based American aircraft.

In Pearl Harbor, the feeling prevailed that the Japanese defeat had removed any threat of invasion against the United States mainland, at least for the predictable future.

In Far Pacific

Other developments in the Far Pacific theater:

China War Front—Japanese dispatches said Japanese troops had driven from western Chekiang province on a 30-mile front after capturing two western Chekiang cities, Changshan and Kiangshan.

Chinese dispatches said American "Flying Tiger" airmen had scored another spectacular victory over Japanese fliers, shooting down seven and possibly eight Japanese planes in a battle over Kweilin, capital of Kwangsi province.

Kweilin, a base for Chinese forces in the south, has been under almost daily attack in the Jap campaign to "soften up" Chinese supply center. Apparently the "Flying Tiger" volunteers, who become part of the U. S. Army air force July 4, have now been assigned to combat this Japanese threat.

Australia—Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters announced that Allied fliers bagged a four-motored Japanese flying boat and a fighter and set big fires in an attack on the airdrome at Japanese-occupied Rabaul, New Britain.

ported as having been made, although the fact that carrier-based planes participated had not been given out, resulted in the sinking or damaging of more than 20 Japanese ships plus heavy damage to shore installations.

The second phase of the campaign was the battle of the Coral Sea which started May 4 after reconnaissance had shown concentrations of enemy shipping and aircraft in preparation for an advance into the Solomon and Lousiade islands.

The task force which first participated in this fight was commanded by Rear Admiral Frank J. Fletcher which attacked a part of the enemy armada anchored in and near the harbor of Tugai, in the Solomon group, and all but annihilated it. The results of this engagement, previously announced by the navy, were sinking or damaging of 12 vessels and destruction of 6 aircraft with a loss of but 3 American craft.

NEED OF SCRAP METAL URGENT IN WAR EFFORT

Market Your Scrap Metal Immediately Urges Federal Agent

There is urgent need of every pound of scrap metal that can be disposed of, W. B. Roberts, of the War Production Board, with offices in Cincinnati, said Thursday after a visit to this city and conference with City Manager Edwin Ducey, Mayor Craig, head of the Fayette County Salvage Committee, and other officials.

While here Roberts and the local officials visited several places and found a large quantity of scrap that may be made available in the near future.

It was not stated where this metal was located, but it is understood part of it is at the old County Home building, where old boilers are being salvaged, together with other metal about the premises.

Roberts declared that some furnaces have shut down because of a shortage of scrap metal, and he and Chairman Craig are urging every person to collect all possible scrap steel and iron and sell it to their nearest junk dealer without delay.

It is one way that every scrap owner can help win the war.

EAT THE SAME BREAD

No country on earth has as many automobiles per capita as the United States. In no country is the automobile such a necessity in the daily life of the people. We have used it so universally that steam and electric railroads long ago discontinued the bulk of their interurban service throughout the country, and interurban tracks have been generally abandoned and torn up. Now, as a war necessity, people are required to give up, to a large extent, this basic means of transportation.

When gasoline rationing went into effect, many Congressmen and Senators who regulate the acts of private citizens, signed up for "X" cards giving them unlimited amounts of gas, on the theory that their driving was essential to national defense. Probably nowhere else in the world is a private car for a public official less needed than in Washington, D. C., where taxicabs are as thick as fleas on a dog's back and rates are the lowest. Most Congressmen and Senators live in apartment houses and hotels where it is more advantageous to use a taxicab than a private car.

Writing on this situation, Raymond Clapper says: "The attitude of these Senators and Representatives makes one's blood boil." This gasoline grab is a glaring example of privileged officialism asking the common people to make sacrifices which the officeholders do not wish to share. It's high time that our growing army of public servants, which is acquiring more and more special privileges, was set back on its heels and made to eat the same kind of bread it rations out to the people.

"BELT TIGHTENING" ALL AROUND

There can be no real check on inflation without maximum economy in government non-war spending. Prodigal government is one of the strongest inflationary influences.

If we are to curb inflation, excess purchasing power must be sharply reduced. And government itself is the greatest creator of excess purchasing power. "Belt tightening" by individuals alone will achieve nothing if it is not accompanied by equally rigorous belt tightening by government, and conservation of every tax dollar.

BLOOD GIFTS

Human blood nowadays is hoarded as precious metals used to be. The war offers plenty of opportunities, and interesting cases arise. In one city, the other day, two Russian sailors, hearing about the stored blood for wounded soldiers, came into the Red Cross headquarters and contributed a pint each. They wanted to do it, they said, as "thanks for America's generous help to their country."

The incident is a reminder of the ex-

Polly Earns Her Cracker
ARDMORE, Okla.—(P)—For 40 years the parrot that her husband had picked up in Central America had been the companion of Mrs. J. B. Hargrave. Now an invalid in her 80's, Mrs. Hargrave fell from her invalid's chair the other day. The chair fell upon her. There was no one at home and her cries were too feeble to be heard by the neighbors. Then her parrot chimed in. But there was nothing feeble about the way it called for help. Neighbors heard the parrot, came to the rescue.

LYNDON, Kas.—(P)—A blessed event approached, distinctly, at the Alex Hotchkiss home. Mr. and Mrs. Hotchkiss told the family secret to their seven-year-old son.
"Can I tell?" he asked eagerly.
"No," said his father. "The proper way is to make an announcement."
So the next day at school the seven-year-old raised his hand, arose, claimed the floor and in dignified manner said:
"I want to make announcement,—etc."

tensive mixing of stored blood that must be in progress now throughout the world. Perhaps the German Nazis still insist on "pure racial blood" for their transfusions, but there seems to be little attention paid to the origin of the blood used, except to make sure that it is free from disease taints. There are special "blood types" that have to be recognized, and the blood of one person injected into the body of another must conform to the type. But apparently there is nothing about it that is racially important. And "blue blood" is merely a figure of speech.

Washington at a Glance By Charles P. Stewart

If Pan-American chat has seemed a trifle copious lately, there's a sound reason for it. The anti-Axis war probably hasn't anything else to be said in its favor, but it certainly is entitled to credit for tying us new worldlings together in bonds of what promises to be enduring friendship. The pending conflict couldn't have popped more opportunely for the purpose. A decade of Good Neighborliness had already taken a lot of effect, but something still was required to rub the idea in vigorously.

The war's pretty well done the business. Our all-around western hemispherical interests are so obviously mutual that we can't but recognize how closely they're allied—that any one or two of our republics hanging out from the family are one or two mere orphans. A couple of 'em, Chile and Argentina, still hang out in the orphan classification, but Chile started the other day to come in under the roof-tree and the Pan-American Union has just adopted a system of unification that inevitably will include the Argentines also. For heaven's sake, don't refer to 'em as "Argentinians" or it'll crab the whole program. They like it about as well as we'd like to be spoken as "Americantians."

How About Canada?
There are 21 of us Pan-American republics. I've always said that Canada ought to be a 22nd. Maybe it's been impracticable, owing to our Sister of the Snows' relations with Britain, but it belongs in our line-up.

And there are some little pee-wee islands and teeny-weeny continental overseas possessions that we're due to assimilate. However, we're middling well now a cohesive empire.

Latin American statesmen, from presidents on down, have been Washington visitors lately, closing the dicker. The last of 'em was Dr. Parra-Perez of Venezuela. But he's only one of a succession. Now, of the Latin Americas, war's been declared against the Axis by Mexico (latest), Costa Rica, Cuba, Guatemala, Haiti, the Dominican Republic, Honduras, Panama, Salvador and Nicaragua. That leaves 11 Pan-Americas that haven't, but all except two of the bunch have broken diplomatic relations with the Axis folk. What's the matter, then, with Chile and Argentina? Chile's dangerously accessible to air raids from Japan. It isn't defensibly provided. It has formidable Jap colonies. It's skeery.

Tests for Teeth Condition May Benefit General Health

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
I HAVE BEEN trying to put down on paper, not for the readers of this column, but for a general medical group, an outline of the examination of the teeth so far as they have to do with the general health of the body—in the first place, what diseased conditions of the body do diseased teeth cause and second, in what way do general diseases of the body affect the teeth unfavorably?

I have been very much interested in looking over some of the examinations given by the Army Medical Boards to see what a proportionate amount of space was devoted to the examination of the teeth and the great care that the Army Board takes in making these records.

Light on General Health
I concluded after some study that an examination of the teeth both by inspection and by the X-ray might throw light on the general health of the body. The general shape, spacing and structure of the teeth indicate such things as general infection (Hutchinson's teeth), diabetes, developmental disorders of the body such as might occur in gigantism or pituitary disease. These, however, are rare.

Malocclusion, loose bridgework and bad plates, all suggest incomplete mastication and consequent disturbances of the digestion and nutrition. The Army Boards, I find, stress this a good deal but in my experience, while it seems logical to think that they ought to cause bad health, they seldom interfere with the digestion and nutrition at all.

In fact, from observation of certain colleagues of mine I have almost come to the conclusion that the teeth are unnecessary. These men have complete upper and lower plates which they will remove at meal time, using them entirely for aesthetic purposes. They munch and mumble their food with bare gums and in the time during which they have been doing this, they have none of them had the slightest attack of indigestion or any

MASS RAID FIGURES WERE NOT ACCURATE

They're Coming All Right but Not 10,000-plane Affairs

LONDON, June 11—(P)—Joint British-American mass bomb scourging of Germany which would make the RAF's 1,130-plane attack on Cologne seem like "a gentle zephyr of a past summer," are predicted by Air Chief Marshal A. T. Harris, who declares that bombings on the Cologne scale "can and if necessary will be far surpassed."

The chief of the RAF's bomber command said in a current news statement: "Do not imagine we can yet put out 1,000 bombers a night whenever we please," and then added: "That time will come. It may not long be delayed." An officially distributed text of his statement showed that first reports yesterday which quoted him as saying that 10,000 bombers a night might be sent over Germany soon were erroneous. They were due to faulty interpretation of earlier material.

CHAPTER FOUR
TIBBY HAD learned that when everything seems definitely settled, fate may step in and turn the whole works upside down. Yet it did not hurt to have a finger in its changing or to pretend that you were not aware that it had changed.
Having settled things with Wayne as best she could—as honestly, at least, and as hopefully—there remained Dr. Thomas Dare with whom she must deal.
Tibby was expecting him to make her a visit, too. That also may have accounted for that rouge rubbed into her cheeks, the becoming bed-jacket, the time she had spent in arranging her dark curls—and the stars shining now in her eyes, as the nurse announced her next visitor.
All this was not lost on Tommy, although he did not realize it was partly for his benefit. He had met Wayne Courtright, taking the elevator down, as Tommy had come up, so there was no stars in Tommy's blue eyes. His very good looking young face looked decidedly dejected. Even his broad shoulders seemed to slump.
"Well," he said, "I suppose you'll be out of here tomorrow. You sure look well enough to be discharged today." Then there would be no excuse for him to come to see Tibby.
Tibby said, "You don't seem very pleased that I have recovered." She put indignation into her tone, but her dark eyes still were shining. She saw through Tommy Dare at last. He never would be able to fool her again—not so completely. She meant to fool him a little while longer, though. After all, he had it coming to him.
Tommy said, "Sure, I'm pleased." But he did not sound convincing. He said, "I see you had another caller." He did not sound very pleased about this, either.
Tibby said, "Yes, I did." Nothing more. She knew that the very brevity of this would be disturbing.
"I suppose," Tommy's tone was more than disturbed, it was distraught, "he took it on the chin—about the plane. He can afford to, with all his lousy money."
"All money isn't lousy," Tibby reproved him. "Wayne does a lot of good with his. I understand he intends to do more, now that we are in the war. He's going to head a committee for the first big drive for bonds, flying all over the country. Yes, he took it on the chin," she added. She did not say all that he had taken, so well, so kindly.
"Then you have nothing to worry about any more," Tommy stated flatly. So the Courtright lug was going to be a hero as well as a big shot in a way? What chance had Tibby? What was the use? This was worse, even, than all those millions. "I may enlist myself," Tommy said, although he felt that this fell flat, as well. "I guess there'll be calls for doctors, but I'd like to finish out this year with the clinic, so I'll have that experience to go on. That's why I have drafted."
Tibby said, "I think you should finish it out." She hoped the war would not last for years and years, as some people seemed to think it might. She hoped that Tommy might never have to enlist. She knew that this was a selfish wish, but it was a natural one when it came to the one you loved. Now she made her tone as innocent as she could. "It would be too bad for you to have to join the Army before you and Steena are married."
"Steena and I are not going to be married," His tone was convincing enough this time.
"You're not!" She hoped hers carried astonishment.
"We never were," he said bluntly. "It's going to be the very dickens to explain—to make you believe me—but, well, it was just a mistake. We weren't even engaged, really."
"Dear me!" Tibby shook her head, lowering her long lashes, so he would not see the laughter in her dark eyes. "First you propose, then you withdraw it—then you propose again—though to a different lady—only to take that back almost immediately. What a changeable person you are, Tommy!"
"I'm not at all," he objected. "I've never changed. I told you I never would. I've loved but one person from the beginning to the end."
"I see," Tibby said. Now she looked demure.
"You don't, at all!" He could not tell her the one, the only one, was she. Tibby still was engaged to Wayne Courtright. She was laughing at him, Tommy knew. She was the one who had changed, although he had asked her not to.
"Oh, yes, I do!" She looked very wise now, mysteriously wise and knowing, as only a woman can when she wants to torture her victim. Dear Tommy, how obvious he was, and how glib. How nice and dear and foolish! She loved him because he was all of that.
"Please don't think I'm blaming you, Tommy," she said. "I realize it would be impossible for you to lose your head over a girl you had known when she wore pigtails, a girl whose face often was dirty. Naturally a girl like that could not seem exciting. It would have to be someone new, someone thrilling and beautiful, like Steena."
"But I tell you I don't love Steena!" Tommy almost shouted this. His nice face was an angry, protesting crimson. "I didn't lose my head over her. I just agreed to try to help her out—like a sap. I let her do things in her crazy female way, thinking maybe she knew best. All the time I hated it. He had not meant to say that much. It was not, as Steena had told him when he had said the engagement was all over and finished, very chivalrous. "I can't explain everything, Tib. Only if you think I loved Steena, instead of you, you are crazy, too. You should know better."
"What I'm trying to tell you," he said, "is that it's you I love. I've loved you ever since you wore those pigtails—and I liked your face dirty! I'll always love you, Tibby. I can't get away from it. I'm asking you to marry me, if you only will. And as soon as you will, too, although I can't give you millions or a silver ship. It will be a long, hard road—yet not so hard, no, not even if I should enlist—if we can share it always together. I know I'm not putting it very well. But I mean it—I'll NEVER withdraw it—what do YOU say, Tibby?"
"I say," her answer came without the slightest hesitation, "it's like that with me, too, Tommy—it always has been and always will be, world without end, my dearest one."
(The End)

Children in Capital Echo the War

By MARGARET KERNODLE
WASHINGTON — Children in the capital echo war in little everyday ways.
Four-year-old Jay Heaston fights big battles in a big white house on a Chevy Chase, Md., hill. The other afternoon his mother met Jay and his young military-minded companions well-armed with sticks 'n' stuff they called guns.
"Where are you going?" she asked them.
"Oh, we're hunting Japs!" She wondered what he knew about Japs, so she asked him "What is a Jap?"
Scornfully Jay replied, "A Jap has four legs and growls." And he went a-hunting.

Ordinarily 5-year-old Sandy contentedly sails her little Navy boat in the backyard pool. The other day she changed her mind and ran away. After alarms went out from her grandmother, Sandy came home again with a big smile and two big policemen. She smiled cherubically at her grandmother: "Don't worry, Nanny. Our city offers complete protection."

Exams were on at a high school where the cadet corps means much. A substitute teacher took a class over for a test. Silently the boys tabooed her tactics when she explained that she intended to collect the 100 pencils she was distributing. "You sit till I count the last one," she said.
Of course the boys spirited away one pencil. They sat and sat, except for one well-planned maneuver. At regular intervals a formation of eight dashed for the front door. While the teacher stopped them, a similar set dotted the performance towards the back door.
That went on until the room

PLANS OUTLINED FOR PROGRAM ON FLAG DAY HERE

Observance Sunday Evening
On Court House Lawn Will Be Brief but Impressive

A rough draft of the plans for the observance of Flag Day in Washington C. H. have been completed and, while, some of the details are lacking, Howard Fogle, commander of the American Legion Post, said this was sufficient to give the general picture of the program.

The principal ceremonies are to be held on the Courthouse lawn at about 6 P. M. Sunday—Flag Day the nation over.

The parade is to form at the Armory, East and Fayette streets, at 5:45 P. M. with the WHS band, members of the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars and possibly other patriotic organizations forming the line behind the color guard. The line of march will not be long. Commander Fogle said, probably direct to the Courthouse.

Howard W. Burnett, commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars post here, has been delegated to get a speaker for the occasion but he has not yet announced his selection or the subject upon which he will speak, other than that it will be appropriate and have the national emblem as the principal theme.

Then, the former doughboys will do something many of them have done only on rare occasions during the past quarter of a century. They will stand a regular army retreat, a ceremony which is a part of their daily life when they were fighting men. As is customary, the band will play the national anthem as the flag is lowered.

Commander Fogle said he and fellow veterans of the first World War, who are the moving spirits in the observance, felt that now of all times the people of Washington C. H. and the surrounding community could well afford to take a few minutes for such a patriotic occasion. He expressed the hope, and said he was speaking for the "rest of the boys" who have or are now fighting for their country, that "everybody will turn out."

The observance will be brief—probably not more than half an hour all told or more than 15 minutes on the Courthouse lawn. This was said emphatically by those making the arrangements.

HERO OF LAST WAR ENLISTS AS MAJOR

59-year-old Cincinnati in Army for Third Time

CINCINNATI, June 12—(P)—Samuel Woodfill, 59, lauded by Gen. John J. Pershing as "one of the outstanding heroes" of the first world conflict, will serve his nation at war for the third time.

Until recently a night watchman in a Newport, Ky., steel mill, Woodfill will enter the army as a major, July 1.

He first served during the Philippine insurrection and in the last war won the congressional medal of honor for wiping out two machine gun nests, destroying 19 soldiers and bringing back three prisoners during an engagement in the Argonne.

He was a sergeant in 1917, became a lieutenant before the Argonne incident and was a captain when the war ended. He remained in the army until 1922, but his rank was reduced to a master sergeant.

His retired rank was raised to a captaincy five years ago. Pershing selected Woodfill as the infantry's pall bearer at the funeral of the unknown soldier in 1921.

BLOOD ON THE CHURCH ON HITLER'S HANDS BUT PEOPLE CLING TO FAITH

discard, so far as the Nazis are concerned.

During wartime, the attack on the churches is not open; it is indirect.

The rallies of the Hitler youth organization are arranged for the very hour when Christian believers flock to their churches. The little boy who, nevertheless, goes to church with his parents, is a pariah, an outcast, a "sissy" to his classmates.

Wherever soldiers so insist, they are assigned an army chaplain. But unless such a demand comes, religious services are not held.

Clergymen are forbidden to visit the sick in state owned and operated hospitals and institutions.

Important festival days, if they fall within the week, have been called off "because of the war." The faithful fear the Nazis never will permit their reintroduction after the war.

Ministers and priests are forbidden to conduct religious instruction in the schools.

Catholic and Protestant kindergartens, where working mothers could leave their children during the day, now have been eliminated by the Nazis. It's Nazi kindergartens only for everybody.

The religious press virtually has ceased to exist. Religious editors were told there was such a shortage of paper that church papers must cease publication.

During the last year, the Gestapo has seized an untold number of convents and other institutions belonging to religious orders. The Jesuits, Franciscans and Benedictines suffered especially.

Nuns, priests and lay brothers generally were forced to leave their homes overnight with only a few personal belongings.

The property seized was used either as SS headquarters, as homes for the mothers of illegitimate children, as office space for Nazi party officials, or for similar purposes.

Now as always in history, however, the "blood of the martyrs is the seed of the church." The arrests of scores of Catholic priests, the dramatic relegation to a concentration camp of Lutheran Pastor Martin Niemöller have not been able to kill off Christianity in Germany. On the contrary, now, during the war, the churches are fuller than ever.

We had occasion to observe this during our internment at Bad Nauheim. Both the Catholic and the Protestant churches were so near to our habitat, the Grand Hotel Jeschke, that we could see the worshippers come and go.

In Berlin we had made the same observation.

The Christians of both faiths are just as determined to save their country from the proposed "National Church" of which the Nazis are speaking, as Hitler and his cohorts are set upon wiping out the last vestiges of Christianity.

I recall a talk I had with Hitler almost half a year before he came into power.

He expressed the opinion that it takes about one generation until a people is weaned away from its former religious and political faiths. Then, taking up religion specifically, he asserted:

"Every leading religion runs for about two thousand years at the outside; after that it has lost its appeal and something else takes its place."

At that time I didn't pay much attention to this remark. Hitler in those days was pleading for the support of the churches, and I regarded these words merely as platonic utterances.

Since then I have come to realize that Hitler must have been referring to his own plans for supplanting Christianity with his own religion of "Blood and Soil."

This religion, which is evidently to be the kernel of the planned national church, is based on substitution of Nordic racial principles and Nordic philosophy for Christianity. Nordic Sagas and fables have been developed into heroic symbols.

It springs from a will to glorify the Germanic race as "divine."

PUPIL SHORTAGE MAY CLOSE SCHOOLS

Teachers May Be Scarce Next Year, Too

COLUMBUS, June 12—(P)—Many of Ohio's city schools may be closed next fall and their classes consolidated with those in nearby buildings, a state department of education official indicated today.

O. E. Hill, assistant education director, said the proposal being discussed in Toledo—closing of 10 schools to save money—might spread to other areas because of a decline in the number of pupils and possible teacher shortages.

Hill commented that it would be "good business" to shut down buildings not operating at capacity, if consolidations could be affected.

CLAIMS SETTLED BY CHARLES WEST

West, in a complaint filed in federal court late in 1941, said the firm engaged him as a business consultant and agreed to pay him one percent of the gross amount of its sales. Between November, 1940 and May, 1941, West claimed, the corporation's sales amounted to $70,000,000, while he received only $13,000.

The Woman's Missionary Society of the Church of Christ assembled for a delightful meeting Wednesday, when Mrs. John Van Gundy extended her lovely home for a picnic. The executive committee assisted in the pleasant hospitalities.

Small tables had been placed throughout the shaded yard, so delightful in the warm summer evening, and the bountiful supper was served from one long table, centered with an exquisite watergarden of Van Fleet roses.

Following the supper hour, Mrs. Bertrice Duckwall installed the new officers.

Mrs. Carson Maddux will be the new president of the society for the coming year.

After a short business meeting the members and guests spent the time in informal visiting and enjoying the cool breezes in the spacious yard.

Tanda Hayride-Picnic

The Tanda Campfire Group assembled for a jolly party Thursday evening when they enjoyed a hayride and wiener roast.

The members had invited their 'boy friends' for the enjoyable evening, with their leader, Mrs. Richard P. Rankin and Mr. Rankin, acting as chaperones to the group.

The hayride was a hilarious one with singing, laughing and joking ringing out through the summer evening. Going to the Riber farm on the Worthington road, the thirty young folks enjoyed swimming, followed by a wiener roast. The swimming and cool breezes along the creek banks whetted the appetites, making the roast one of unusual enjoyment.

Plans were made for the camping trip planned for June 15, 16, 17 and 18.

A mixed variety of garden flowers were in profusion throughout the large and comfortable rooms of the home, and added charm to the many hospitalities provided by the charming hostess.

Picnic Supper Enjoyed by Club Group Thursday

Combining a delicious picnic supper with a gay evening of bridge, Mrs. M. Grove Davis and Miss Loraine Kruse entertained the members of their bridge club to one of the most delightful sessions of the club calendar.

The Davis home on the Baron Steuben highway was an ideal setting for the joyous affair, the large shade trees, the velvety lawns, and the cool country breezes adding to the many pleasures provided by the two engaging hostesses.

The sumptuous feast was most delicious, with every thing that makes a picnic supper a success, served. The guests lingered long after the supper hour, enjoying the comforts of the cool lawn, and the delights of a summer evening in the country.

For the bridge game, the hostesses invited the guests into the lovely home, which was equally as cool and enjoyable as the yard and to which many bouquets of flowers added fragrant beauty. Miss Peggy Devins was presented high score trophy.

Sugar Grove WCTU

Mrs. Eldon Toole graciously opened her home Wednesday afternoon for the regular meeting of the Sugar Grove WCTU.

Mrs. Charles Marine had charge of the devotional services, followed by the business meeting, with Mrs. Frank Haines, the president, presiding.

The program leader for the day, Mrs. Clara Campbell, had presented an interesting program, and opened it with a paper on "Young America Is." The topic of Mrs. Marine's paper was Advertising Gold Religious, which was most interesting and enlightening. Mrs. Toole's paper on "Parents Determine the Morale of a Nation" was well received.

Concluding the program was the "Soldier's Prayer", by Mrs. Earl Scott.

Little Miss Dixie Lee Ellison, talented young singer, favored the ladies with the song, "Thinking of Others."

A refreshing and tempting collation was served by the cordial hostess.

SAGAR'S DAIRY

Thursday Kensington Club Enjoys Elaborate Luncheon Given by Mrs. B. E. Kelley

Always a perfect hostess, Mrs. B. E. Kelley entertained with one of the loveliest parties of the Thursday Kensington Club calendar at the Devins Party Home.

The twenty-two members were invited for a one o'clock luncheon, and were enchanted with the appointments, the decorations, and the numerous pleasures afforded them from the welcome of the gracious and charming hostess to the adieu.

The dining table was indeed a vision of loveliness in its decorations. Covered with a lace cloth, the table's centerpiece was a picture of beauty, drawing exclamations of admiration from everyone. A handsome gold filigree vase, was filled to the utmost with a large variety of the Buck Florist's choicest blooms, with different shades of asters, statice, delphinium, blue bonnet, snapdragons and dahlias interspersed with baby breath and fern in gorgeous arrangement. The mirror base on which this stood was encircled with formal fern. Twelve places were laid at the large table, with small tables, similarly appointed, used for the remaining guests. The three-course luncheon was most unusual and delicious.

Adding to the tables attraction were placecards bearing a single handpainted orchid, very new and effective. At each cover a little pottery bowl added a number of colors to the already colorful scheme of the adept hostess, and were favors of the party. In each bowl was a small scroll tied with pink ribbon, on which was written an original verse of the hostess which bore a message of remembrance and a bit of information about the gift, which was brought by Mrs. Kelley from the Frankoma Pottery Works, the only one in the state of Oklahoma, when on a vacation last summer.

In the living room of the spacious party home, a large green and white pottery jar filled with white lilies, a gift to the hostess.

Mrs. Van Winkle Is Guest of Honor At Pretty Party

Mrs. Ralph V. Taylor and Miss Dorothy Jones were two charming hostesses Thursday evening, when they entertained with a lovely party for Mrs. J. Ervin Van Winkle at the Devins Party Home.

The affair included intimate friends of the honor guest, who leaves Saturday to join Mr. Van Winkle in making their home in Kokomo, Ind.

Exquisite bouquets of roses, honeysuckle and larkspur were arranged throughout the spacious home and added fragrance and beauty of great admiration.

The gracious hostesses had provided most delightful pleasures, with bridge played during the evening. At the close of the game, an exceptionally lovely award was presented to Mrs. John F. Browning for high score.

To Mrs. Van Winkle, who looked most attractive in a smart summer jersey of white with green trim, a pretty and appropriate farewell gift was presented.

At the close of the game, the ladies were invited to the dining room where the table was a picture of pure beauty. A pale pottery basket holding seven tall lilies, each bearing four and five blooms, and placed on a round mirror, made an exquisite centerpiece. Flanking this, were small light green pottery bowls of Dorothy Perkins roses, mostly buds. The table was covered with a lovely lace cloth and the entire service was of pink crystal, adding another pretty note to the many. The course was most delicious and tempting and the hour most pleasurable.

The guests lingered until a late hour with Mrs. Van Winkle, reluctant to bid adieu to such a charming and greatly admired person, who has always been so popular in social circles of the city.

Included in the lovely party were Mrs. F. W. Goodwin, the honor guest's mother, of Columbus; Mrs. Robert E. Hartman, Mrs. Forrest M. Ellis, Mrs. N. M. Reiff, Mrs. Condon Campbell, Mrs. Ralph Lloyd, Mrs. Walter Orr, Miss Jane Durant and Mrs. Browning.

Bridge Club Is Entertained by Mrs. Forsythe

Including Mrs. Francis Haines with the members, Mrs. John Forsythe filled the role of a charming hostess to her fortnightly bridge club on Thursday evening.

A delicious dessert-course was served at small tables, centered high with exquisite garden flowers.

The contract bridge game was keenly contested during the evening, the tables arranged in the lovely living room of the hostess' very attractive home, to which gorgeous arrangements of flowers had been arranged.

High score trophy was presented to Mrs. Fred Rost.

C.T.S. Class Picnic

Gardner Park was the scene of a joyous affair, Thursday, when the C.T.S. class of the First Presbyterian Church held a picnic supper with the regular meeting. Thirty one members and guests assembled in the evening, for the delightful affair.

A long table was loaded with good things to eat, and every one had an abundance of good eatables.

A very brief business session was conducted, following the supper, during which Mrs. May Thoroman paid a tribute to the flag, in observance of Flag Week.

The guests for the evening with the members were Mrs. Joseph Harper, Mrs. Tom S. Maddox, Miss Bess Cleveland and Mrs. J. Roby Oldham.

The hostesses promoting such a lovely affair were Mrs. Lida Mayner, Miss Emma Jackson, Mrs. Anna Shoop, Mrs. May Thoroman, and Mrs. Frank White.

POET'S CORNER

THE FLAG OF U. S. A.
The dear old U. S. flag unfurled
The stars and stripes so true—
The best flag of the whole wide world
The red, the white and blue.
The flag that flies o'er land and sea
Has never met defeat
This good ol' country, brave and true
Is mighty hard to beat.

The flag of victory of the brave
Did over Fort McHenry wave
As it waved there so proud and free
It's waving still o'er you and me
The banner streaming from shore to shore
The stars and stripes we much adore
So gallantly floats with pride and joy
Honoring our country without an alloy.

THE AMERICAN FLAG
The American flag is a beautiful thing,
As it waves to and fro in sunshine or rain.
As it waves to fro it seems to say
Good luck my boys, as your on your way.

If it's tattered and torn and hangs in rags,
It still holds up and never sags.
You can look far and near and search in vain,
But to me it's still the most beautiful thing.

If you have a flag at home put it away,
Get it out and hang it up today.
For it has a meaning to you and me,
We've a land of the brave and a home of the free.

Get out your flag and hang it high
So it can wave at passer's by.
Just let them know as they pass by
Your still an all-American guy.

OUR FLAG—LONG MAY IT WAVE.

Long may it wave o'er our land of the free,
Long may it mean to the world, Liberty;
Long may its colors of red, white and blue,
Fill us and thrill us with love staunch and true.

Long may our armies on land or on sea,
Bear our grand flag to help others be free;
Long may it wave—'til the earth is no more,
Then may the Lord take it up to His shore.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

Hitler found out that his high powered mechanized and motorized army bogged down in the snow and mud of the Russian Winter. Although our Army is largely mechanized the cavalry horse is still a highly essential factor in this mounted division and in the Field Artillery. The Army also maintains remount farms where many cavalry horses are bred and raised.

These select horses cost from $100 to $165 and our crack cavalrymen are expert riders and carry on the traditions which have followed the cavalry from the earliest days of the Army. Purchase of War Savings Bonds will insure good mounts for the Cavalry. You and your neighbors buying War Bonds and Stamps regularly every pay day can help buy these horses for the U. S. Cavalry. Invest at least 10 percent of your income in War Bonds.

Good Will Granges Open Softball Slate By Beating Cudahys

Madison Mills Grange rolled Cudahy's for a spin in the last softball game of the week Thursday night and earned themselves a place among the undefeated. The Grangers held the reins all the way through with the final score Madison Mills Grange 19 and their Cudahy opponents only 5.

The game was hard fought from the start in spite of the lopsided score.

The Grangers sent 3 runs across the home plate and got 3 hits in the first inning. The second brought the "cheesemakers" 1 run on 5 hits but Millers got 2 more runs and 2 more hits. The second half of the third gave up to the Grangers 4 more runs from 2 hits.

In the fifth inning Cudahy's started a rally, and scored 2 runs before it was stopped. The Millers got 4 more runs on 3 hits during their half.

Grimm, the Grangers second baseman, led the hitters with a home run, 2 doubles and a single at 4 times at bat.

Harness Horse Hoofbeats

By DICK CASE

The 1942 harness racing season got under way Memorial Day at Freehold, N. J., with the largest paid attendance ever at Freehold and the wagering went to nearly $36,000 opening day. The best horse the first day appeared to be W. B. Eckert's Hopeworth Lee from Reading, Pa.

Word from more than one reliable source says that Vic Fleming worked the 2-year-old Fox candidate pacer Widow's Pride in 2:10 at Saratoga Raceway. This one cost Messrs. Sullivan and MacWhinney of Machias, Me., $3,000 at auction last fall—Del Miller is stable at Saratoga Raceway with 10 head, most of them owned by W. N. Reynolds, Winston-Salem, N. C.

Two openings take place the week of June 8. Saratoga Raceway starts its 63-night swing Thursday, June 11, with a thousand dollar over-night event. At Buffalo Raceway, Hamburg, N. Y., a 44-night meeting under the lights begins June 12. Frank Woodland is the handicapper again at Saratoga and Ed Keller will make up the fields at the Buffalo Raceway.

On June 13 and 14 at the Wisconsin State Fairgrounds near Milwaukee, a two-day meet is scheduled that will bring out many of the better horses that have trained in the northwest. Young Johnny Simpson, Chester, S. C., has changed his colors to maroon and white. W. E. Miller, the traveling trainer-owner from Washington, D. C., is now training at Flemington, N. J. His first base away from home this spring was Pinehurst, N. C., then back home, then York, Pa., and now he is over in Jersey near enough to ship to Freehold on race day.

Dates for the Goshen Raceway at Historic Park, Goshen, N. Y., have been set up by the New York Racing Commission as July 1-4 and July 8-11. Rupe Parker worked Ed Moon's big pacer Dillmite in 2:13½ over the mile track in Goshen. Ben White schooled Volo Song in 2:15. Fred Egan and John Benyon stepped in 2:10 3-4 with Colby Hanover, present favorite for the 1942 Hambletonian, and Morate.

Bob Johnson and his Roosevelt Raceway cohorts have decided that they will race in the afternoons on Long Island and there will be no twilight racing there at all. Dr. H. M. Marshall will show the racing marks of the 3-year-old Hambletonian candidate, Hollywood Dewey, owned by Eugene Cray, at Bellows Falls, Vt., at Freehold, June 10 in the $1,000 22-class trot.

VARIETY SPICE IN SPORTS SHOW FOR ARMY-NAVY

Five-hour Extravanza To Be Put on at Polo Grounds For Relief Fund

By HAROLD CLAASSEN

NEW YORK —(P)—Everything from athletic trap drummers to musically inclined athletes make up the cast of characters for New York's five-hour sports show Sunday at the polo grounds for the benefit of army and navy relief.

The feature attraction will depend entirely upon the spectator's own point of view.

For the baseball fan it probably will be the five-inning contest that pits Bob Feller, Cleveland's strike out king before he became a U. S. sailor, and his Norfolk Naval Training Base nine against an all-star army aggregation.

The boxing addict will have a chance to see Corp. Joe Louis Barrow, in private life the heavy weight champion, go four rounds against George Nicholson. To make the affair realistic, both boxers have promised to discard their head gear.

Greg Rice, who travels farther and faster on foot than most people can on an X card will do a bit of distance running; Cornelius Warmerdam will make an attempt to clear 16 feet in the pole vault; and Al Blozis will take on the aspects of a 75mm gun by throwing the shot out of sight.

Golf contributes a "driving for accuracy" contest featuring Craig Wood, Vic Ghezzi, Corp. Jim Turnesa and Pvt. Ed (Porky) Oliver.

There'll even be a soccer match involving Brooklyn and New York lineups, plus a tug-of-war in which the Gotham firemen will attempt to manhandle the police.

Don Budge will bare his red thatch in a mixed doubles tennis encounter in which Alice Marble will be one of the competitors.

To fill in the lulls between the scene changes, Broadway will contribute laughs by Olsen and Johnson, Ray Bolger and Al Schacht plus music by Tommy Dorsey and Fred Waring. Army coast guard units also will be represented by musical outfits.

There'll be seats for only 55,000 spectators.

Pirates Send Jungles To Giant Farm Club

PITTSBURGH —(P)—The Pittsburgh Pirates announced the outright release of right-handed pitcher Kenneth Jungles to Jersey City of the International League, a farm club of the New York Giants.

Jungles' release brings the Pirate roster down to 24, one below the limit.

Thomas Jefferson was a scholar, musician, writer, traveler, inventor, author, farmer, builder, educator and statesman.

Army Plans two Football Teams To Play Pros for Relief Funds

WASHINGTON —(P)—Two powerful army football teams, made up of the finest college and professional talent in the service, will battle the clubs of the National Professional League across the nation's gridiron this autumn in a series of games principally for the benefit of army emergency relief.

Crucial Test Facing Reds With Dodgers

CINCINNATI, June 12—(P)—Cincinnati's Reds engage the Brooklyn Dodgers tonight in the first of a four-game series to show whether the locals have any chance at all of being a pennant threat in the National League.

Bucky Walters, seeking his seventh straight victory, is the Red pitcher, against Whit Wyatt or Ed Head.

The Dodgers have whipped the Reds four out of five tries this year, and the current series should determine whether that was luck or the work of a better team.

No Outside Team Booked for Game Here This Friday

There will be no special softball game this Friday night at Wilson Field, Tommy Doyle, YMCA recreation director said.

It was previously stated by the recreation board that a game would be played with an out of town team every Friday night. The reason given was that as the season has just started and no teams are in the right shape to play.

It is hoped to have a game or two next Friday night and plans are now under way to secure teams.

The admission charge to the non-league games is 12c and the league games 6c. Defense tax is included in these prices.

Miami Coach Named On National Committee

"He said he had a .32 caliber gun with only one cartridge, so he also got a long hunting knife in a sheath and said if the bullet didn't kill his stepfather, the hunting knife would finish the job." Returned to the scene the boy read poetry and quoted Shakespeare while awaiting removal to the Juvenile detention home. OVER THE TOP FOR VICTORY with UNITED STATES WAR BONDS-STAMPS

USO CAMPAIGN SET TO START HERE NEXT WEEK

Soliciting Committees About Completed for Both City And Rural Drive

Getting set for the county-wide campaign to raise $3,800 for the United Service Organizations, committees have been completed for seven of the ten rural townships with indications that those for the remaining three would be made up by the end of the week and ready for the start of actual solicitation Monday.

The campaign in Washington C. H. is to be carried on through a ward and precinct set-up and the teams of solicitors for these are now nearing completion, Walter Patton, the publicity chairman, said Friday.

A meeting of the solicitors for the city organization has been scheduled for Monday night at the Sunnyside School auditorium. While the tire conservation practices are expected to keep many of the rural campaigners at home, Patton said all of them had been invited and would be welcome to come and take part in the discussions and hear the explanations and instructions given the city solicitors.

The campaign in the city is slated to get under way Tuesday, a day after the start of that in the county's rural sections and villages.

Quotas have been set up for each of the townships on the basis of a careful survey on their estimated wealth and ability to contribute. Here is the list of townships with their committees and quotas:

PAINT TOWNSHIP—(Quota, $170) Raymond Scott, captain, William Purcell, Homer Miller, Mrs. Martin Morris Mrs. Harold Pope Mrs. Delbert Looker and Mrs. Robert Haigler.

CONCORD TOWNSHIP—(Quota, $120) Walter Sollars, captain, Warren Brannon, Mrs. Jean Nisley, W. W. Montgomery, Mrs. Clarence Rowe and Mrs. Lois Burris.

GREENE TOWNSHIP—(Quota, $120) Chester Zimmerman, captain, Bliss Cochran, J. W. Fout, Mrs. Grace Roehm, Mrs. Nancy Cummings, Mrs. Norma Pavey and Carper Davidson.

UNION TOWNSHIP—(Quota, $285) Beryl Cavine, captain, Floyd Mitchell, Percy Kennel, Mrs. Walter Thompson W. R. Moats, and Mrs. Wilbur Campbell.

WAYNE TOWNSHIP—(Quota $190) Good Hope Precinct, Wash Lowe, captain, Emerald Solars, Walter Free, George Darlington Jones, Cisco Precinct, Elmer Hutchinson, captain.

MADISON TOWNSHIP—(Quota, $160) Kenneth Craig, captain, Frank C. Schwaiger, Eugene Grim, Delbert Remy and Fred Lettau.

JASPER TOWNSHIP—(Quota, $190) Harry Hiser, captain, Grant Morgan, Robert Coffman, Luella Morris, Mrs. Loren Wain, Otis Hess, Mrs. Clarence Taylor, William Hoop, Mrs. John Steinmetz Ralph Minton, John Sheeley, Ora Kelly, Mrs. Alice Sparks, Charles Moore, Ullric Acton, Mrs. May Mark, Herbert Wills and Mrs. Marjorie Pope.

JEFFERSON TOWNSHIP—(Quota, $290) S. Max Thomas, captain.

MARION TOWNSHIP—(Quota, $160) Harry West, captain.

PERRY TOWNSHIP—(Quota, $130) Robert Cockerill, captain. The purpose of the USO, Patton explained in a general way, is to "make a home away from home" for the men in the country's armed forces, at home and abroad. Broadly, the USO was designed to merge and coordinate the efforts of several associations and organizations for providing out-of-camp recreation and help for the service men.

Patton sent letters to twenty Fayette County youths in the army, navy, marine corps, air corps and coast guard, asking them four specific questions concerning the USO and its operation. Several replies have been received. One from Tom Murray, which speaks for itself, follows:

1. Have you visited any of the USO stations? If so, give some of your experiences, what do they do for the soldier?

I have visited clubs in Watertown, Black River, and Carthage, N. Y., also Louisville, Radcliffe and Elizabethtown, Ky. I find all clubs well managed. They are comfortable and friendly. Dances are held for the servicemen. When the clubs are away from the city, the girls are brought to the clubs by chartered buses. A system is used to secure the higher caliber girls. There are usually ping pong tables, card tables, refreshments, and magazines. I'm sure most of the boys enjoy and value the clubs.

2. Do they charge for services?

When charges are made, they are of a minimum scale. I have never heard a complaint in regards to charges.

3. Are they friendly?

They are very friendly and

War Today

Devastating Air Attack On Hitler's Domain Is Invasion Prelude

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

(Wide World News Service)

Britain's unprecedented big-scale bombings of Hitler's domains in western Europe undoubtedly are fulfilling many of the requirements that would be expected of the second land-front for which a lot of people in the Allied countries have been clamoring as an immediate aid to Russia.

But this doesn't mean the land offensive should be dispensed with. The second front will come in due course.

Still, this terrific aerial bombardment represents one of the most important developments of the war and lends weight to the startling prediction by Britain's Air Chief Marshal A. T. Harris that "some people argue that heavy bombing will not win wars. To them I answer that it hasn't been tried yet. When it is, Germany will be the experiment and Japan will be the confirmation."

Still, this terrific aerial bombardment represents one of the war's most important developments and adds weight to this recent prediction of Britain's Air Chief Marshal A. T. Harris:

"A lot of people, generally those with no qualifications to speak (if to think), are in the habit of reiterating the silly phrase: 'bombing can never win a war.' We shall see. It hasn't been tried yet and Germany, more and more desperately clinging to her widespread conquests and still foolishly striving for more, will make a most interesting subject for the initial experiment. Japan can be used to provide the confirmation, but don't expect too much just yet. There is work to do first—and a great deal of it."

This is a rapidly changing war, in which science is producing quick shifts. The advance in the striking-power of the air arms is one of the most remarkable.

We can't afford to base judgment on past air performances. For instance, at the outset of the war there were those in high positions who poo-pooed the idea that warships, especially battleships, were vulnerable to air attack. For a fine demonstration of what air power can do, check our big victory at Midway.

One argument for a second front in western Europe is that the Nazi army must be knocked out. That probably is true, but there's more than one way of skinning a cat. There could be no more effective method of hamstringing an army than to cut it off from all military supplies, say through the destruction of war industries by bombing on the scale now being carried out by the Royal Air Force.

However, there need be no worry for fear the Allies will try to beat Europe's arch-devil by bombs alone. That eagerly awaited new land-front will materialize, but pending its advent those who are advocating it can rest easy in the assurance that the all-out bombing raids certainly in at least some cases are causing as much and probably more damage than a sizeable land army could effect—and the air fleets are doing it in far less time and with immeasurably less expenditure in life, energy, material and money.

4. Do you think their work is good enough that the folks at home should support it with their dollars?

I believe the clubs are conservative. Once a club is established, I believe every dollar is well spent. The initial cost of some of the clubs seem a little high. I have noticed some new clubs were not as conveniently located as they should have been, since the average soldier has no means of transportation. On the whole I think the USO has done as much to boost the morale of the soldiers as any other item.

what to expect but there below we could see through rifts of clouds the harbor filled with troops and transports.

Taylor told of the launching of the actual attack.

"Well, I sorta figured the Marquis of Queensbury rules were out," he said, "so I said to Bill, 'you hit 'em high and I'll hit 'em low.' From then on every man for himself.

"As soon as I saw what ships were in the harbor, I instructed the pilots which ones to hit. In a melee there is no time for detailed assignments we just went to work with torpedoes and bombs.

"The only thing I remember clearly as the dive-bombers pushed over into screaming dives was that each pilot was yelling something into his radioophone, some cussing but most yelling 'Remember Pearl Harbor.'

"We did not catch the Japanese exactly flat-footed, but they got no anti-aircraft fire until the attack had started. By that time, it was too late. Let Bill tell you what it looked like when our boys finished."

"When we completed the attack," Burch said, "the harbor was filled with sunken and burning ships, a few of which managed to crawl to the beach to keep from sinking.

HATCHERY IS TO SUSPEND OPERATIONS FOR SUMMER

After having done its part toward helping meet Uncle Sam's request for increased poultry and egg production, the Beery Hatcheries' branch headquarters on Market Street will be closed for the summer the fore part of next week, Mrs. Thelma Hamilton, the manager, said Friday.

Mrs. Hamilton said that complete records on the number of chicks distributed through the branch here were not available but she did say that the hatchery in Greenfield, which supplied the chicks, had hatched approximately 86,000 eggs this season. Many of the chicks went to farms in Fayette County, she added.

Mrs. Hamilton said she did not know when the hatchery would reopen but gave assurance that it would be ready to supply chicks when the farmers were ready for them.

possibly eleven. This included two heavy cruisers, three light cruisers, two destroyers and two large transports. In addition we sank numerous small boats and lighters by strafing. We believe we also sank a seaplane tender and a third transport. The whole harbor was strewn with smoking wreckage.

"And I am happy to say we lost absolutely nothing. A couple of our boys brought back a few holes in their planes, but none of the personnel was even scratched.

DR. C. L. IRELAND FUNERAL RITES LATE SATURDAY

Distinguished Native of Fayette County Dies In Columbus

Military funeral services for Dr. Charles L. Ireland, 70, native of the Jeffersonville community, and nationally known authority on physical therapy technique, who died at his home in Columbus Wednesday, will be held Saturday at 4 P. M. at his late residence in Columbus. Death was due to a heart attack.

Dr. Ireland graduated from the Jeffersonville High School in the class of 1889, and was back at Jeffersonville for the 50th anniversary of the class in 1939.

There are still four living members of his class, Ralph Elster, San Francisco; H. H. McKillip, Detroit; Mrs. W. O. Wood, Cuyahoga Falls and Icy Allen, Jeffersonville.

Dr. Ireland's father was a physician at Jeffersonville. During the first World War Dr. Ireland served in Walter Reed Hospital with the rank of captain.

He had long been engaged in the practice of medicine in Columbus, and was one of the pioneers in the X-Ray field, having lost several fingers on both hands from X-Ray disintegration as result of his work.

During the war he served as chief of physical therapy at Waller Reed Hospital and later established therapy departments in other government hospitals and military homes.

He was also well known as a lecturer and addressed various medical groups throughout the country. Dr. Ireland was the author of a book and chart on physical therapy which is widely used here and in Europe.

He was a member of York Lodge of Masons, Franklin Temple, American Legion, and the Columbus Academy of Medicine.

His wife, Mrs. Norma Keating Ireland, and several nieces and nephews survive.

Burial will be made in Green Lawn Cemetery at Columbus.

JOLLY SEWERS SEW AND ENJOY PROGRAM

Sewing for half an hour took up the most part of their meeting when the Jolly Sewers met for their fourth meeting at the home of Jean Spencer.

The president, Donna Jean McAfee, was in charge of the business meeting.

Two piano solos and a vocal solo made up the program. Donna Jean McAfee played "To a Toy Soldier" and Jean Spencer played "Vesper Hymn." David Crone sang "The Star Spangled Banner."

After the program refreshments were served by the hostesses.

It was decided that the next meeting would be held at the home of Anita and Doris Young on Lewis Street. It will feature a picnic supper.

SEEKING CAMPS FOR TRAINING STATE GUARDS

Camp Perry Not Available For Annual Camp in Ohio This Year

Special Weapons Company of the Ohio State Guard here, like other Guard units, is scheduled to depart for the annual weeks camp on July 26, but so far the company does not know where it is going—and neither do head officers of the guard.

The reason is that Camp Perry has been taken over by the federal government for other purposes, and as a result other locations for the week's encampment must be obtained.

In this connection Captain W. B. Hyer said Thursday that the company is in need of 15 additional recruits at once.

Gen. Donald F. Pancoast today announced he was seeking authority of the War Department for use of Civilian Conservation Corps camps in Ross County for State Guard training this summer.

Camps Ross and Stony Creek, near Chillicothe, have been abandoned as CCC camps and General Pancoast said he thought the State Guard would be allowed their use unless the Army wants them.

He said he understood one camp was being used as a conscientious objector camp and the other for storing equipment from other abandoned camps.

Two camps would be necessary to accommodate the State Guard in training. General Pancoast said, and unless both Ross county camps are available other sites would have to be considered.

He said he would confer with General Daniel Van Voorhees at Fort Hayes today on the request.

Extensive Reconditioning of Line Under Way

Work of reclaiming, or reconditioning between eight and ten miles of the natural gas pipe line between Bloomingburg and the point of connection with the large main near the Fayette-Madison County line on the Danville road, is under way.

The old line is to be taken up in sections, gone over thoroughly, repairs made where necessary, and a heavy coat of preservative applied before it is relaid.

The six inch line in many places is located at the edge of the traveled surface of the Danville road and was laid when gas was first piped to this city.

The line is owned by the Ohio Fuel Gas Company.
